WEEKLY HEADLINES

- * The Palestinians have one main message for the US administration: We hate you and incite against you, but we fully expect that you will continue providing us with cash, to the tune of billions of dollars. And, when you do try to help us, we reserve the right to spit in your face.
- * The Palestinian Authority responded to President Trump's decision to close the PLO Washington DC office and called it a "Declaration of War."
- * U.S. President Donald Trump's long-awaited "ultimate deal" peace-plan will likely be unpopular in parts to both Israelis and Palestinians, according to Mideast envoy, Jason Greenblatt. "We're going to have to defend the plan to Israelis and Palestinians. We are ready for criticism from all sides, but we believe this is the best path forward for everyone," he reportedly told Reuters in an interview.

NEW WORLD ORDER

"Setting fire to the ground," a "major catastrophe," bringing "new instability" are the headlines that have greeted Donald Trump's unorthodox decisions over the past year. Withdrawing from UNESCO, moving the US Embassy, leaving the Iran deal and cutting funding to UNRWA and funding for Pakistan were seen as extreme decisions in the Middle East and around the world. Insofar as there is a "Trump Doctrine," it has been to call this bluff.

In the mind-set of Trump and his team, the time has come for the United States to move quickly to reverse decades of foreign policy norms, ending the status quo, and ripping up what the previous administrations did.

This is unprecedented. It could be foolhardy, say the many critics of the administration. But so far none of the threatened "chaos" and "instability" has been unleashed. Previous administrations that played it safe and sought to make minor adjustments or shift the needle a few degrees here and there found instability was unleashed regardless of what they did.

NIKKI HALEY

"All [Palestinians have] done is have their hand out asking for money, badmouth the United States, not come to the table on the peace deal – why would we have a PLO office? Why would we continue to fund the Palestinians?" asked Haley. Haley said that the US was ready to negotiate a peace deal as soon as the Palestinians were prepared to return to negotiations.

"If the leadership of the Palestinians came to the table, automatically you're going to have a peace plan. Negotiations are going to happen. Neither side is going to like it," she said. "But the Palestinians have more to gain than Israel ever will."

IRAN SANCTIONS

Haley says Iran is 'feeling the pain' from Trump's revived sanctions – by Gregg Re: "Iran is "feeling the pain" from the sweeping sanctions revived by President Trump in August, the U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, Nikki Haley, told Fox News... "They feel weak and we are suffocating them to the point that they have to address ballistic missiles; they have to address their support on terrorism," Haley told "Special Report" anchor Bret Baier." NIKE – DO SOMETHING

Tom: We're waiting until we're over a rural area. We're going to take back the airplane.

Deena: No! Sit down, be still, be quiet, and don't draw attention to yourself! (The exact words taught to me by Delta Airlines Flight Attendant Training).

Tom: Deena! If they're going to crash this plane into the ground, we're going to have to do something!

Deena: What do you want me to do?

Tom: Pray, Deena, just pray. (after a long pause)

Deena: I love you.

Tom: Don't worry, we're going to do something...

Rowe thinks America should raise up our Tom Burnetts instead of our Colin Kaepernick's. And on this day of remembrance, he is certainly right.

RISE OF ANTI-SEMITISM

Russian social network encouraged women to enter the competition by posting sexy Nazi-themed selfies together with an entry explaining why they "love and revere the Third Reich of Adolf Hitler."

Entrants used their full names and unabashedly wrote of their neo-Nazi values.

Women sent in photographs of themselves performing Nazi salutes, at neo-Nazi rallies, or posing with Nazi memorabilia.

QUOTABLES

"Thinking 'I can't' is idolatry. If the Almighty helps us, we can change the world. And if He doesn't help, we can't do anything" Rabbi Noah Weinberg.

We limit ourselves by walls of false beliefs that we hide behind. When we have faith, we can let go of who we imagined ourselves to be and become who we really are.

"No matter how many mistakes you make or how slowly you progress, you are still way ahead of everyone who isn't trying." The two most important elements to change are focus and effort, and we can control both. We can keep trying. We can keep growing. We can focus constantly on where we want to go. No matter how small the changes we make, we are still way ahead than we would have been if we didn't try at all.

Shana Tova U'Metukah, may God grant you a good and sweet new year
