IRAN BANS ISRAEL

FINAL SOLUTION

Antisemitism Watch: An Oxford University study found that 20% of Britons believe Jews are behind the COVID pandemic.

Iranian president orders government to implement ban on all Israeli-made tech. New parliamentary legislation passed last week brands any cooperation with Israel, including through use of computer products, an act against God

Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu told Israel Hayom in an interview published today that no Palestinians living in areas slated for annexation would be granted Israeli citizenship.

Palestinian Authority could face 'existential threat' if it stops security coordination with Israel

PA / ISRAEL

Senior Israeli officials said Friday that security coordination between Israel and the Palestinian Authority was expected to continue clandestinely, despite the PA's vow earlier this week to end cooperation over the new Israeli government's plans to annex portions of the West Bank.

The officials said the Palestinians told Israel they were not prepared to completely "smash" the security coordination and would not allow an outbreak of violent incidents, the Ynet news site reported.

Channel 13 said that the PA had sent messages to Israel saying that despite ending the cooperation, it would not allow terror attacks against Israelis or a mass popular uprising.

PEACE WITH ISRAEL

Recently, eating with an Israeli or even watching a television series that sheds a positive light on Jews has come to constitute the despised “normalization” and is considered a crime and an act of treason.

The Palestinian smear campaign is taking place amid silence from the international community and media. They seem indifferent to a rather crucial question: if a Palestinian or Muslim cannot share a meal with an Israeli or watch a TV drama about the life of Jews in Arab countries without being labelled a criminal, how would any Palestinian leader dare to sign a peace agreement with Israel?

BIBI ON TRIAL

Benjamin Netanyahu vows Sunday that he will not agree to a plea bargain in the corruption case against him. Netanyahu faces bribery, fraud, and breach of trust charges in three different cases. His trial opened on Sunday, garnering massive attention from the local and international media.

Addressing the indictments against him, he said, "The last election was an expression of gross no-confidence in those who set me up. They are unable to beat me in an election so they do something else. They thought these indictments would be a death blow, but the public is smarter and gave us more votes than ever."

NEW NORMAL

Israelis are breathing a little easier as new COVID-19 infections remain at very low levels and the economy slowly reopens. Public schools have resumed, malls, beaches, bars and restaurants are opened. It's been a tough haul so far and unemployment is still over 25%, but dropping as more businesses reopen.

The steps Israel took were tough and included closing the education system, houses of worship, public venues and places of entertainment. With air travel at a trickle, Israel's famous tourism industry has been paralyzed and hundred of thousands of travel workers are eagerly looking forward to the reopening of the skies

Iran's President Hassan Rouhani ordered his government to implement new legislation to ban the use of any Israeli products in the Islamic Republic, the FARS news agency reported Tuesday.

With Israeli know-how showing up in all aspects of hardware and software, it is not clear how the Iranians can ever hope to implement such a law. The top computer companies in the world, including Intel, Microsoft, Google, IBM and others, have all heavily invested in the Jewish state and have extensive research and development operations, employing tens of thousands of Israelis. Israeli knowhow and technology is incorporated in many of their products that are used around the world, including in Iran.
